During the 35-year history of the ULM softball program, individuals have been recognized for their outstanding efforts on and off the field. In total, athletes from ULM have totaled more than 80 All-Conference honors for their play on the field and more than 70 academic awards. Included in these honors are recognition for being amongst the best players in the state of Louisiana, ULM's conference and the team's region. In 2008, the Warhawks had two freshman named honorable mention All-Louisiana.

The 1997 season alone saw six members of the team named to the All-Southland Conference Team, nine players named to the Commissioner's Honor Role, and three named to the Academic All-Conference team. ULM's Sarah Dawson also claimed the league's Pitcher and Player of the Year Award while head coach Rosemary Holloway was named the league's Coach of the Year.

Seven different Warhawks have earned a specialty player of the year award, led by five from Sarah Dawson. Lori Tande, the school and Southland Conference's all-time leader in most offensive categories earned the Warhawks last Player of the Year award, pulling down the honor and the distinction as the league's Hitter of the Year in the 2001 season.

ULM has had 10 individuals honored by the NFCA with All-South Region honors and two individuals named Player of the Year by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association.

In the 22 years that the Warhawks were a member of the Southland Conference, individuals earned a total of 85 All-Conference nods, 14 specialty awards including four Player of the Year and five Newcomer of the Year nods, 16 Southland Conference All-Tournament honors and 57 league academic honors. These players have helped the Warhawk softball program amass nearly 800 wins and average better than 24 victories per season.
